Statewide duties for Saunders

Governor James R. Thompson on Friday afternoon appointed Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority, to the additional responsibilities of director of aeronautics for the State of Illinois.

The action was announced simultaneously by Governor Thompson, Secretary of Transportation John D. Kramer and William S. Badgley, chairman of the Airport Authority. Badgley said: "The Authority board appreciates the governor's strong support and is confident that the appointment will strengthen the Authority's position in developing a major new airport for the St. Louis region at the federally-approved Columbia-

Waterloo site.

"The continued growth pattern of aviation during 1977 indicates a trend that will shorten the time that the St. Louis area can remain at all competitive in aviation with Lambert Field as its major airport.

"Yet, as this trend was developing, U.S. Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams took two actions that could delay the new airport. In March 1977, he held up further funding for Columbia-Waterloo. And late in the year he removed St. Louis from the list of cities eligible for immediate funding for a new airport.

"These actions can be quickly reversed either by Mr. Adams or his successor.

"In the meantime, there will

Fire kills father and child, 2½

A father and his 2½-year-old son whom he tried unsuccessfully to rescue, died in a fire that destroyed the family's double-wide mobile home in Pontoon Beach at 11:20 p.m. Monday.

The dead are Jerry Gerkin Sr., 21, and Jerry Jr., who were trapped in the child's bedroom during what neighbors described as a "fast fire" that enveloped the mobile home in flames within a matter of minutes. The family lived at 10½ Jones Park Drive.

The blaze prevented the rescue of the father and son after Mrs. Cynthia Gerkin, 18, escaped through a broken window. She suffered severe cuts and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she remained today.

Cause of the fire was undetermined, but Bruce Cavins, 5 Jones Park Drive, whose wife is a sister of Jerry Gerkin and who was among the first on the scene, said he believed the fire was caused by coals from a fireplace in the Gerkin mobile home.

"When the fire broke out, I ran to their home and I saw two men dragging her (Mrs. Gerkin) through the window. The whole living room was in flames.

"I ran to the window and tore the aluminum frame from the window trying to reach Jerry and the baby, but the heat and smoke was so bad I couldn't do anything," Cavins said.

"It was terrible," He said that Mrs. Gerkin had awakened and discovered the fire.

"Jerry ran to the baby's room which adjoined his and Cynthia's room, but he never came out," Cavins related.

Cavins said he knew that the couple had a fire in the fireplace and Mrs. Gerkin told him they had trouble putting it out. Some witnesses who lived in the area reported, however, they heard a muffled explosion before the fire broke out.

Mrs. Keith Kramer, 7 Jones Park Drive, said she saw the flames and went outside.

"It was a mass of flames," she said. "I don't see how anyone got out of it alive.

Mrs. Kramer, who said she was acquainted with the family for several years, said she did not hear an explosion, but that she believed the fire may have started from the furnace.

"I know they have been having furnace trouble, and have been planning to have it fixed," she said.

Two Long Lake Firemen, Charles Polley and Marvin Ribbing, entered the blazing trailer in a rescue effort.

School 'mascot'

A somewhat lovable-looking character known as Stanley Steeler has become the "mascot" of Granite City High School North.

Sherri Davis, Tracy McIntyre and Margie Verschuyl have worked for over a month on the unique art class project.

The girls are in first hour art seven class taught by Robert Moske.

Stanley is made of paper mache, cardboard, boards and newspapers and is covered with silver paint.

He stands approximately four feet tall, and his eyes are two large black buttons.

The hat is an inverted bowl and his feet were traced from Mike Sherman's foot imprint.

Stanley stands majestically on top of the trophy case in the school cafeteria and will be seen at the home basketball games of the Steelers.

Previously negotiated pay increases in 1978

Heavy bargaining activity in the past two years, resulting in many three-year agreements, leaves 1978 with a relatively light schedule for private nonfarm collective bargaining.

According to the U.S. Labor Department, calendar 1978 will be a light bargaining year, with the largest portion of wage changes coming from deferred wage increases.

About two million out of 9.7 million workers covered by major collective bargaining agreements are under contracts scheduled to expire or to permit reopening of wage provisions in 1978. Major agreements are defined as those covering 1,000 workers or more in the private nonfarm economy.

In addition, 4.5 million workers are scheduled to have reviews under cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) clauses in their agreements, and 6.3 million workers are to receive deferred wage increases resulting from agreements negotiated in earlier years.

In comparison, 1977 had 4.9 million workers under contracts that expired or permitted reopening of wage provisions, and about 4.5 million workers expected to receive deferred wage increases.

In the private nonfarm sector, one industry dominates the 1978 bargaining picture — construction, covering 740,000 workers in numerous local agreements.

Contract expirations also will be prevalent in the transportation equipment and retail food store industries.

Heaviest bargaining activity will occur in the second quarter of the year.

Although outside the private sector and not included in the bargaining statistics, negotiations with the U.S. Postal Service in July 1978 will affect 600,000 workers in several unions.

Deferred wage increases in 1978, affecting at least 6.3 million workers, will average 5.1 percent or 38.6 cents per hour. This compares with averages of 5.9 percent or 42.4 cents that had been expected for 1977.

Next Year's increases will affect 3.2 million workers in the manufacturing sector, averaging 4.6 percent or 29.9 cents; 3.1 million workers in nonmanufacturing industries will be receiving increases averaging 5.6 percent or 47.5 cents.

Deferred wage and benefit "package" increases in 1978 will cover nearly 4.3 million workers and average 5.3 percent in bargaining units covering 5,000 workers or more. The average for 1977 was 5.9 percent.

The largest concentration of workers receiving deferred wage increases next year will be in the metalworking industries. Many of these workers are employed by the major auto companies.

Other major groups receiving deferred increases include construction and telephone workers.

The average deferred wage

Contraband bill signed

Illinois Governor James R. Thompson on Friday approved 41 bills that legislators had amended as he wished, including a contraband bill, S. 624.

The new law makes it a crime punishable by one to three years in prison and a $10,000 fine to carry drugs, liquor, hypodermic needles, syringes, knives, firearms or explosives into prisons.

It will go into effect July 1. Meanwhile, key legislation of the 1977 fall session, establishing Class X felonies and tougher criminal sentences, drew mixed reactions during the weekend. It will become effective Feb. 1.

It sets minimum sentences of six to 30 years in prison for various major crimes, and under certain circumstances a judge could double the maximum penalty to 60 years.

Crimes covered by Class X include aggravated kidnapping for ransom, rape, deviate sexual assault, aggravated arson, armed violence, treason, heinous battery, armed robbery, certain "hard drug" sales and calculated criminal drug conspiracy.

It prohibits release on parole before the end of a convict's sentence, but provides for reduction of a sentence by one day for each day of "good time" in prison.

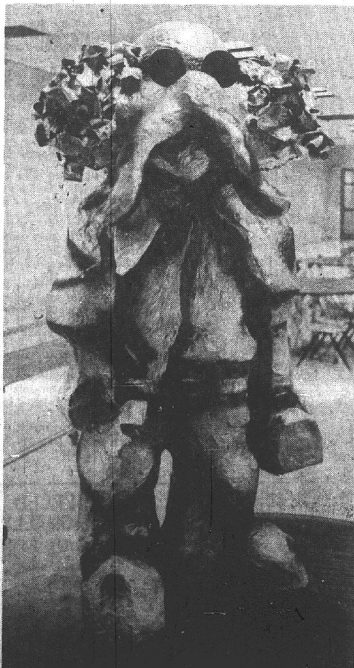

Some prosecutors and public defenders feel the prison terms resulting will be similar to the actual time being served at present for such offenses.

Current laws give prisoners one-fourth-day off for each day of good behavior.

Bulletin

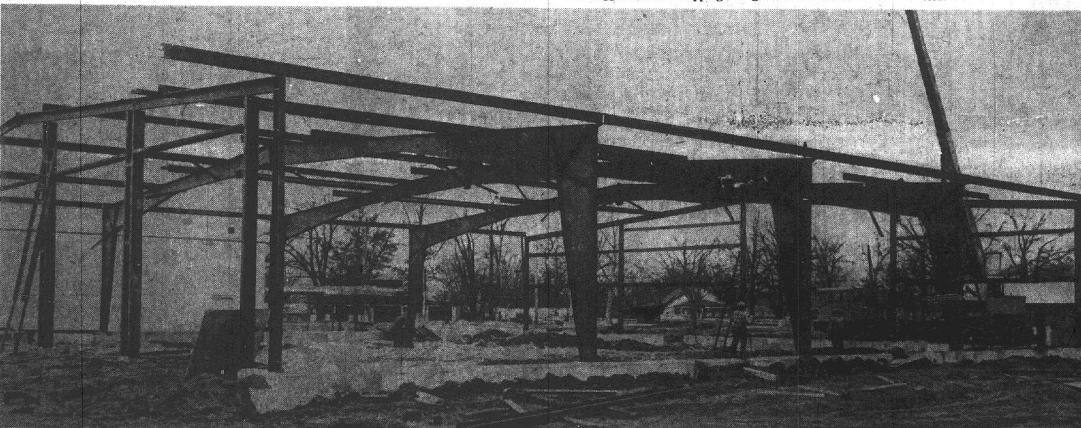

Granite City police were alerted at noon today to watch for a man who had been involved in a strongarm robbery and an abduction in Edwardsville and was thought to be enroute to a Granite City restaurant.

Initial reports indicated a man grabbed a purse in Edwardsville and ordered a motorist to drive him to a Nameoki Road restaurant. He is believed armed with a handgun and should have the purse in his possession, officers were told.

washer and drier room in addition to a repair and storage room. Funds for the building are being derived from the federal government as well as from local financing.

Want to learn about flight dynamics? Go fly a kite

When Robert Williams tells his students to "go fly a kite," he isn't kidding. The assistant professor of elementary education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is deadly serious.

While flying kites and tossing Frisbees on a lonely beach are not common classroom experiences, the professor feels there is a lesson to be gleaned from the activities.

Students enrolled in a four-day elementary education workshop to be offered by the University Jan. 19-22 will spend the biggest portion of their time investigating the principles of flight.

In order to take the course in advanced aerospace education, students must sign up for one credit hour of Independent Projects in Elementary Education: Science (EDS EL 490C-1).

Designed to increase elementary teachers' knowledge of flight dynamics, the winter workshop will include an airlift by the U.S. Air Force to Pensacola, Fla., where students will be housed at the U.S. Naval Air Station.

While there, students will receive a tour of the flight facility where Navy pilots and astronauts are trained. Special demonstrations on sea survival, medical and astronaut training will be observed.

Members of the class will be taken aboard an aircraft carrier where Navy pilots and a destroyer, the U.S.S. Owens. The Naval Aviation Museum and the Land Survival Training Exhibit will also be visited.

Included in the four-day schedule of activities will be kite flying and Frisbee tossing on the beach, with a study of their aerodynamic characteristics.

All participants in the course should have taken Aerospace Education (ED EL 516-4) as a prerequisite.

Fees for extension courses are $10 per credit hour plus a $10 service charge per course. Students concurrently registered on campus during the quarter are exempt from the $10 service charge.

Additional costs of the course will be approximately $10 per day for room and board at the Naval Air Station.

Instruction will be supplemented by personnel of the U.S. Navy. On-the-spot lectures and demonstrations by aviation personnel will be given to students during all the field trips, Williams said.

Registration for the workshop will be limited; it will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

The Department of Elementary Education phone number is 692-3082.

Driving safely 365 days a year urged

Safe driving should be a year-around goal of everyone, according to Illinois State Trooper James Gallo.

Assigned to the public affairs section of the state police, he told Granite City Rotarians last week that there are as many severe accidents on non-holiday weekends as during holidays such as New Year's.

Gallo said 30 percent of fatal crashes are single-car mishaps, with alcohol being the biggest contributing factor.

He said that in general the human body will absorb one drink per hour and when a person drinks more than that, alcohol builds up in the body and leads to problems.

As of date of the Rotary meeting, there had been 1,166 people killed in Illinois auto accidents during 1977, a slight decrease from the 1,187 in 1976 during the same period of time.

In response to a question, the trooper pointed out that in a right turn lane, on a highway where there is a traffic control signal for the right turn, a vehicle may still make the turn on red as long as the signal is not posted with a "no turn on red" sign.

Gallo said Illinois state police are still urging people to voluntarily comply with the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, but that some Interstate auto speeds are running about 62 mph and the state police are giving tickets.

Fellowship group will hear speaker

The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International local area chapter will meet Friday, Jan. 6 at 6:30 p.m. at the Round Table Restaurant, Collinsville.

Fr. Frank Corbett will discuss the work of Jesus in his life. The pastor was born in Kincaid, Ill. in 1929 and attended elementary school and high school there.

After graduating from high school he went to work in coal mines for two years and entered the Air Force in 1950, serving four years.

He entered the Conception Seminary in 1954 and graduated from St. John Seminary in 1964, being ordained a priest on May 23, 1964. He served as associate pastor at St. Cabrini in Springfield, Ill., St. Peter and Paul, Alton, and St. Boniface, Edwardsville, and then became pastor at St. Isadore, Bethany, Ill., and founding pastor in 1974 of Our Lady of the Holy Spirit in Mt. Zion, Ill.

Fr. Corbett has assisted in religious crusades of both Nicky Cruz and David Wilkerson, and has been guest preacher at four churches, representing nearly every denomination.

be an acute need for the kind of planning that will keep Lambert's limitations from holding back aviation growth in Illinois as well as Missouri, while at the same time vigorously pressing for an end to the arbitrary federal delay in funding for Columbia-Waterloo.

"The governor's action provides an ideal way to fill these needs, as well as to pursue a number of other aviation initiatives which are also important to the entire state of Illinois as well as to the St. Louis region.

"The Chicago Midway Airport low-fare route proceeding and the regulatory reform legislation now before Congress will inevitably result in a tremendous increase in air traffic, and will accelerate the obsolescence of Lambert Field.

"The provision of competitive air service for many of the cities in Illinois outside of Chicago, as well as the emergence of the rapidly growing commuter airline industry, will be of substantial benefit to the entire state and the St. Louis region.

"As director of aeronautics, Mr. Saunders will be able to play an important role in these projects.

"The Authority enthusiastically endorses the governor's appointment. It is consistent with his strong support of the Columbia-Waterloo project and of meeting the needs of continued aviation and the leadership in the St. Louis region and throughout Illinois."

Badgley said that Saunders will continue to maintain his residence here and will divide his time between Springfield and the Authority's headquarters on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Saunders said that, even though he will have less time to devote to the local Airport Authority, the new post will enhance his ability to promote aviation improvements.

Saunders, the director of Dulles and Washington National airports, was selected as the $75,500-a-year post as executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority in November 1970.

His selection was announced at a news conference by Authority Chairman Robert B. Larkin, Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and St. Louis Mayor A. J. C. Cervantes.

Saunders, then 52, had received top professional honors in his field.

The authority, created by the Illinois legislature, was charged with developing a second major airport for the St. Louis area.

During development of the airport, Illinois was to have five members on the authority and St. Louis two. The Missouri membership was to be increased to five when the new field was put into service.

Gov. Ogilvie made these comments on the appointment of Saunders:

"The authority's choice of Mr. Saunders from an outstanding group of the nation's top professional aviation men emphasizes the completely non-partisan nature of the authority's task, and I am happy to have the support of Mayor Cervantes in this tremendous effort.

"Mr. Saunders has had a distinguished career in airport management and operation, has an intimate familiarity with the Federal Aviation Administration, and enjoys the respect of the top people in our airlines.

"All these qualities — and wide support from the governments, agencies and persons involved in the project — will be necessary to achieve our goal of a modern jetport to serve the future needs of the Illinois and St. Louis areas."

Saunders, then a resident of McLean, Va., was director of the Department of Transportation's bureau of national capital airports, which owns and operates Dulles International and Washington National.

He formerly managed the Raleigh-Durham (N.C.) Airport, the Greater Cincinnati Airport, and Dulles.

He was president of the Aero Club of Washington, past president of the American Association of Airport Executives, and a member of the board of examiners of the latter group.

He was named "man of the year" in 1970 by the National Traffic Association, composed of airline executives, and was in charge of the ground force in June 1970 which captured the hijacker of a TWA airliner at Dulles. FBI and security men shot out the tires of the plane, held by the hijacker for payment of a $100 million ransom.

Saunders and his wife, Louise, are the parents of four children.

He said in 1970, "I have no preconceived ideas about this exciting project. But I am happy to be on the frontier of aviation, where the action is. Few challenges can equal the one I will be assuming here."

Ogilvie noted that Saunders "has given us full assurance of his desire to work in the closest harmony with the city of St. Louis and agencies in the area concerned with keeping St. Louis a great jet aviation center."

"His record demonstrates his objectivity and fairness, and his ability to work with the many official and private groups involved in such a large undertaking."

Saunders attended the Universities of Virginia, North Carolina and Minnesota. He is a native of Agawam, Mass.

Plans for development of the new airport were announced here in April 1970 by Cervantes and Ogilvie at a joint news conference. Completion of the project, Ogilvie, would take at least 10 years.

Station attendant is robbed

An estimated $50 in cash was taken in an armed robbery at 10:57 p.m. Sunday from John Napoli, Wood River, the attendant at the Clark Service station, Highways 111 and 162.

The attendant reported he was in the office when a man about six feet tall, with medium Afro haircut and holding a blue steel revolver entered and said, "Hey bud, give me your money."

While Napoli was reaching into his pocket for the money the robber allegedly struck him in the face with his fist. The attendant told police he could not remember an automobile being in the area.

Donovan in top post at American Steel

As announced here last week, Mitchell B. Milonski, works manager at the American Steel Foundries plant in Granite City since 1972, retired Jan. 1, and William P. Donovan, assistant works manager at the plant, was named to replace him.

The changes were announced by L. D. Davis, president of ASF.

Milonski, 60, elected to take early retirement on March 1, 1970, he held a 42-year career with ASF. He will be on special assignment until that date.

Donovan, 46, has been assistant works manager for six years. He had broad experience in engineering, production and maintenance.

Milonski began his career at the Granite City Works in 1935 as a wood pattern maker apprentice.

He became a wood pattern maker journeyman, metal pattern maker and assistant general foreman-pattern.

He held the latter position until 1955, when he spent one year at the ASF plant in Indiana Harbor, Ind., as supervisor of process and planning.

Returning to Granite City in 1956, he held a succession of positions before being named works manager. These jobs were process inspector, chief process inspector, supervisor of process and planning, superintendent and assistant works manager.

A graduate of Central High School in St. Louis, Milonski attended the University of Cincinnati, Washington University in St. Louis and the University of Illinois.

He is a sponsor of Junior Achievement and a member of the Steel Foundries, Society of America.

He is a director of the Tri-Cities Area United Way, Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association, St. Elizabeth Hospital and the Illinois Manufacturers Association-Southern Division.

Milonski and his wife, Jean, live in Florissant. They have a son, Dana.

Donovan graduated from Cornell University in 1950 with a bachelor's degree of mechanical engineering degree.

He received a master's degree in business administration from Washington University in St. Louis in 1970 and a master's degree in metallurgical engineering from the University of Missouri-Rolla in 1976.

After jobs with Carrier Corporation and Orenda, Inc., he joined American Steel Foundries in 1956 a facilities engineer at the ASF home office in Chicago.

WILLIAM P. DONOVAN

In 1967, Donovan was named assistant to the works manager at the Granite City works, and in 1971 he became assistant works manager.

Donovan is on the executive committee of the Cahokia Mounds Boy Scout Council, and was vice-chairman of this fall's Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign.

He is a member of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce, Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association and Granite City Rotary Club.

He is a past chairman of the St. Louis District of the American Foundryman's Society.

Donovan and his wife, Laurie live in Florissant. They have four sons, Peter, Thomas, David and William.

Rites held for Lucious Jordan

Funeral services were held at noon today at an East St. Louis funeral home for Lucious Lee Jordan, 45, of 135 N. Fifth St., Brooklyn, a relative of Madison residents.

Jordan was shot death Wednesday at the home of his wife, Nellie, 50, of 607 Washington St., Brooklyn, according to a police report.

They were separated and divorce papers were served on Jordan Tuesday, it was reported.

Mrs. Jordan said her husband kicked in her front door about 3:25 a.m. and she fired at him once with a .38-caliber pistol. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of a gunshot wound in the chest. No charges have been filed and a coroner's inquest is pending.

Other survivors include a son, Lavon of Madison, a daughter, Cora of East St. Louis, and his mother, Cora of Madison.

He was employed at Kerr McGee Industries, Granite City.

'78 Bargaining

Increase in 1978 for workers under contracts with cost-of-living adjustment clauses is 4.3 percent and for those without such clauses is 6.8 percent.

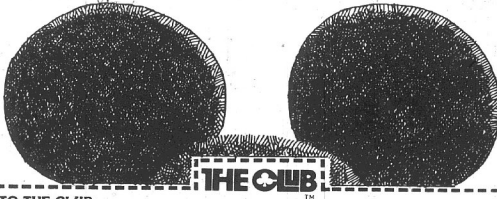

However, this difference will be narrowed, and possibly offset, by cost-of-living adjustments resulting from increases in the Consumer Price Index. Of the 6.3 million workers scheduled to receive deferred increases next year, 4.2 million are covered by contracts containing COLA clauses.

Contracts containing cost-of-living escalator clauses currently cover 5.8 million, or three-fifths, of all workers under major collective bargaining agreements. Of these, 4.5 million are scheduled to have at least one COLA wage review during 1978.

Many of the remaining workers are covered by agreements that expire in 1978 and do not have a review scheduled in 1978 or are covered by agreements being renegotiated in late 1977.

These figures are preliminary. They do not include the contracts scheduled to expire between Nov. 1 and Dec. 31, 1977. Also excluded are contracts which expired earlier in 1977, but where negotiations were continuing or where information had not yet been obtained.

Flu invades area

By VALERIE EVDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer
Between Friday and 10 a.m. today, a total of 389 people were examined at the St. Elizabeth Hospital Emergency Room. Of that number, 116 were diagnosed as suffering from symptoms of flu.

"I just wish I had a magic wand and it would go away," Dr. William C. Austin, medical director of Emergency Services at the Granite City hospital, said this morning in discussing the widespread flu-like illness sweeping the region.

"We are moving as fast as we can to help people, but we are inundated with patients," Dr. Levine said.

"Some people are getting quite irate because they are having to wait anywhere from an hour to three hours, in some instances," he said.

"But we are set up to care for the injured, those suffering heart attacks, lacerations, burns and similar emergency conditions," Dr. Levine stated.

"These patients must be cared for first and, unfortunately, no matter how badly one feels, the flu virus is not an emergency condition."

"There is no doubt these people are sick, but we are urging patients with coughs, colds, sore throats and stomach distress symptoms to get in touch with a private physician and please not to come to the emergency room," Dr. Levine stated.

Dr. Levine said the number of sick people in this area has increased substantially in the past few days.

"Of 105 examined Friday, 19 had flu symptoms. Among the 105 seen yesterday (Jan. 2), a total of 40 was diagnosed as probable flu victims."

Basically, those ill are suffering with chills, fever, sore throats and some have sore throats.

Although not nearly in the same proportionate numbers, some of those examined are complaining of vomiting, abdominal pain and diarrhea.

The flu-like illness is characterized by the sudden onset of chills, fever and muscle aches.

Dr. Levine urges the persons with these symptoms to get bed rest, take lots of fluids and aspirin-type compound every four hours to lower fever and relieve muscle aches.

Those unable to tolerate aspirin, he advised, to take Tylenol, Tempre or an acetaminophen compound.

Generally, the more severe symptoms of flu will last three or four days and lesser symptoms a week to 10 days, but a patient may feel the after-effects of flu for nearly three weeks, the doctor said.

"All bets are off when it comes to elderly persons, and those suffering with more serious flu symptoms are examined immediately," he said.

Also considered emergency cases are persons with severe and unrelenting headaches with numbness or tingling sensation, those who are vomiting which fails to stop within a four to five-hour period and extended cases of severe diarrhea.

Adults with fevers 103 degrees or over should be taken to the emergency room, he said.

The flu syndrome here appears to be both the viral and bacterial diseases. Most chest x-rays are negative and blood tests show a slightly elevated white count, denoting some bacterial infection.

Flu victims now recovering from the more severe symptoms should stop eating and drinking and when recovering should drink weak tea with sugar, or clear soda without bubbles and definitely no greasy foods.

Joe Kube, pharmacist at Reese Bellemore Drugs, said demand for cold medicine, aspirin and cold tablets has increased between 30 and 40 percent in the past week.

News notes

More than 40 barges experienced some delay during the weekend at Alton Locks and Dam No. 26, where some ice had accumulated and where a pin is being replaced in a hinge on one of the auxiliary lock's gates.

Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon last week barred the Sears Easy Method driving school in East St. Louis from seeking a driving training school license for three years.

The minimum wage rose Jan. 1 from $2.30 to $2.55 an hour, affecting 4,500,000 workers and adding $2.2 billion to the economy.

House investigators are displeased with a U.S.-South Korea agreement under which 100 seen yesterday (Jan. 2), a total of 40 was diagnosed as probable flu victims."

Fire fatalities

Long Lake Fire Chief C. Arnold Rutherford said, "We almost lost the two firemen as they were nearly trapped. They made their way toward the rear of the trailer, but the heat was so intense the men were forced to exit out the same window as Mrs. Gerkin."

"Both firemen required first aid and needed oxygen. When we got inside, we found one of their fire helmets melted by the heat."

"We found the baby and the father in a rack bed room. This was indeed a terrible thing. I have seen it before, but you never get over it," Rutherford said.

The state fire marshal has been asked to investigate. Firemen were at the scene, assisted by Pontoon Beach police, for nearly two hours. Loss to the trailer was estimated at over $16,000.

Mr. Gerkin was born in Belleville, but had lived his entire life in Granite City. He was a truck driver for P. R. Major Tire Co. in Granite City.

Mr. Gerkin is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cynthia (Dickerson) Gerkin; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce (Kim) Cavins, 5 Jones Park Drive, and Mrs. George Lindley of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

GREETINGS IN SONG are delivered with a personal touch in a singing telegram to Emanuel Fernandez at his home, 2300 Edison Ave., Sunday afternoon by Melanie Asadorian, left, a former Miss Granite City and Miss Madison County Fair queen. An

Singing telegrams are revived here

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

"Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday dear Mickey, happy birthday to you."

The usual salutation accorded a Mickey or a Dorothy on his or her birthday now has a different sound in the Quad-City area.

In this instance, the message is in the form of a singing telegram, delivered "on key," and in person, by an attractive brunette with a lyrical voice and brilliant smile.

We wish you a merry Christmas, we wish you a merry Christmas, we wish you a merry Christmas and a happy new year. Now, Mr. . . . will you lead us in singing Christmas carols?"

Members of a Granite City law firm and their staff smiled with appreciation after the holiday greeting arrived last week at their office.

The felicitations and request were from a partner in the firm. He chose the novel method of delivery to give more personal warmth to the Christmas message.

The voice and accompanying smile belong to Melanie Asadorian, a former Miss Granite City and the first Miss Madison County Fair queen.

For a nominal sum, Melanie will present the accolade, in song, to match the occasion—a birthday, anniversary, wedding, retirement or even a divorce.

The singing telegram is not new.

Western Union offered such a service in this area until 15 years ago, according to a telegraph company's regional supervisor.

But there was little demand for the service and it was discontinued. Soon afterward, Western Union moved its offices from downtown Granite City.

Ken Thompson, owner of The Town Crier, 1907 Delmar Ave., resurrected the concept the week before Christmas.

Thompson opened the business place May 28, 1977, and inaugurated Western Union teletype operation in his store on Nov. 4 bringing back full telegraphic service to the downtown area for the first time in 15 years.

The Town Crier previously housed a division of Graham's Book Store after the firm moved from its longtime location on the corner of Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues.

A business supply store was operated on the premises before Thompson took over.

The singing telegrams, however, differ from the basic Western Union service, Thompson points out.

The service has an extra meaning, he believes, not only for the recipients but for Melanie herself.

The young woman is part of the highly-regarded Concert Chorale vocal music group at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The Chorale will travel on a concert tour of Europe this summer, and each member must raise $1,500 in entranced listener is tiny Kelly Taylor, the honoree's granddaughter. Fernandez expressed surprise and pleasure upon receiving the message from his nephews and nieces.

Pleadings filed in board member's suit

Legal pleadings in a suit challenging the legality of Madison County assuming control of the Metro-East Sanitary District have been filed in St. Clair County Circuit Court and Circuit Judge Richard Goldenhersh is to set a date for oral arguments in the suit in the near future.

The suit was filed by Robert Eastern, East St. Louis member of the sanitary district board who was due to be ousted in favor of a Madison County appointee when his term expired last month.

Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City was appointed to replace Eastern, but Eastern filed suit in St. Clair County and received a temporary restraining order prohibiting the sanitary board from removing Eastern or seating a Madison County member.

Goldenhersh, whose father's firm once served as a St. Clair attorney for the levee district, granted that temporary restraining order, until pleadings were filed and a hearing could be held.

Being challenged is a state law giving majority membership on the five-member sanitary district board to the county which has the higher assessed valuation in the district. Eastern contends the majority should go to the county with the highest population.

Arson called possibility

The Granite City fire department and police suspect arson in a fire extinguished in a mobile home at 3023 Nantok Road, at 4:30 p.m. Friday, according to a police report.

It is the home William Krug, who is presently a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

John Cottrell, Krug's son-in-law, put out the fire before the fire department arrived, authorities said.

Firemen found a can of lantern fuel and noted a strong odor of gas and a burn trail on the carpet, they said. Damage was estimated at about $250.

News notes

Governor James R. Thompson in discussing an 18-member agricultural mission from Illinois that will leave for Peking (People's Republic of China) on March 17 and return April 1 said, "Illinois is the number one agricultural exporting state and China's 800 million people are a potentially enormous market for our farm products." The mission will visit Ministries of Agriculture, Forestry and Foreign Trade, and four various academies, farm communes and agriculture-related industrial plants.

Illinois Conservation Director David Kenney last week signed an application requesting federal funds to conduct Young Adult Conservation Corps (YACC) program in Illinois during the coming year. Reminiscent of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s, it is aimed at relieving unemployment among persons in the 16-24 age group. The YACC will provide training for young people with minimal job skills, and will advance public works projects for which there are no funds. Dr. Kenney said Illinois' application proposes employment for 319 men and women.

A hundred years ago in Illinois, business was in a slump. Major banks were closed in Chicago, Springfield, Decatur, Carlinville and Sterling. During 1877, there were 361 business failures in Chicago, historians recall.

The Illinois Department of Mines and Minerals has scheduled 12-week classroom courses in practical coal mining, State and federal mining laws, first-aid, accident prevention, and instrument operation are among topics to be covered. Miners preparing to take various state examinations are expected to find the free courses helpful. Courses are scheduled for Benton, Eldorado, DuQuoin, Coulterville, Elizabethtown, Springfield and Litchfield.

Purse, $320 cash stolen from home

The purse of Mrs. Eileen Ruitman, 2332 E. 27th St., containing papers, keys and a bank envelope with $320 cash, was taken from a kitchen chair in her home. It was reported Saturday by a relative.

A tall man wearing a green fatigue-type coat and blue jeans fled with the purse.

Crackdown on deer poaching in region

Officers in the southwestern part of Illinois comprising Conservation Region IV are making deer poaching tougher, as shown by arrests for the killing of ten deer out of season. At the beginning of the fall season, when poaching became prevalent, the Region IV Law Enforcement Division (34 W. Broadway, Alton) decided to concentrate on cultivating information from the public and making extra efforts to act on or investigate all responses received.

The success of the successful cases is attributed to a formula of "public assistance and good investigative follow-up."

The poaching cases involve the four most prevalent methods of illegal deer hunting. "Four of the deer were killed with the aid of spotlights from vehicles. This method is most commonly used by so-called professional or commercial hunters who sell venison illegally," a spokesman said.

"Three more were killed by the use of dogs. In this method, mostly during daylight hours, hounds are loosed to find and run deer, and the hunters drive nearby roads and try to kill a deer as it crosses."

"These poachers should not be confused with the hundreds of good sportsmen who use hounds to chase fox, coyote, and raccoon. These men do not want hounds that will run deer, for it ruins their sport."

"They prefer 'straight' dogs that only hunt and run the quarry they are after. Good hound men want these poachers caught, because they ruin the name of the sport of hunting with hounds," it was related.

"The third type of illegal deer hunting is that done as a byproduct of some legal hunting. This occurs mostly as a result of people squirrel hunting, who have a deer wander up and they attempt to kill it with the same ammunition they have in the gun for squirrel hunting."

"This usually only results in various degrees of wounding, but no deer. However, in the three arrests made in the Region IV cases, sufficient shots were made to be fatal."

"The fourth method is the attempt to legalize the poaching by the use of a bow and arrow permit. The poacher purchases and carries a legal bowhunting permit. He then hunts the deer with a firearm, usually a .22 rifle, as well as a bow."

"Fortunately, our law enforcement officers have found a new scientific technique that can readily determine if the firearm-arrow system is used, and it has been proven successful again in the recent Region IV cases.

"Region IV officers will tell you that despite all their hard investigative work, scientific methods and desire, the main catalyst is the citizen who cares enough to call and furnish the initial information."

"In addition, the secret is the timing of the call. During or soon after the violation takes place is the time to call."

"All the above mentioned cases were completed within a matter of a few hours after the actual violation took place, and some before the violators even reached home."

"Region IV Law Enforcement personnel are extremely happy with the success of their program. It has also resulted in a number of arrests for illegal taking of furbearers, which has also been a problem this fall. We urge concerned citizens to continue their cooperation and assistance."

The Region IV office phone number is 462-1181, or individual officers can be reached via radio through any Illinois State Police headquarters. All information received is kept confidential as to the source.

State warning to schools in E. St. Louis

State Superintendent of Education Dr. Joseph M. Cronin on Thursday admonished the action of East St. Louis School District 189 in creating two deputy superintendent positions without following equal opportunity guidelines or consulting school superintendent Leroy Duckworth.

In a letter to James E. Williams, president of the East St. Louis Board of Education, Supt. Cronin asserted that "federal regulations requiring equal employment opportunities, advertising of positions, and seeking the most qualified people are not being followed."

He said the board "may be in violation of The School Code of Illinois relative to its relationship concerning recommendations from the local superintendent of schools."

He added that he "questioned the legality and appropriateness of proceeding unilaterally without the local superintendent's recommendation."

In response to the action by the East St. Louis Board of Dec. 19 in creating the two deputy superintendent positions.

2. Announce and post properly all determined vacancies.

3. Request the recommendation of the district's superintendent of schools.

In addition, Dr. Cronin announced the formation of a special task force for the "the purpose of investigating possible improper or illegal board action and any violations of state and federal laws concerning the expenditure of funds and the utilization of personnel."

He added that he will "take appropriate actions based on the recommendations of the task force."

The exhibit entitled "Your Camera in the National Parks" will be on display in the rotunda of the Old Courthouse from today through Jan. 22.

Woody Williams, National Park Service staff photographer, seeks to capture the wonder of the national parks in this collection of 16 photo prints in both color and black and white. The public is being invited to view the show from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

"Your Camera in the National Parks" is a traveling exhibit assembled by the National Park Service's Harpers Ferry Design Center. Williams traveled to many parks and focused his imaginative eye on the park environment.

Through varied photographic techniques, he created his images: the detail of a spring flower, the swirl of birds in flight, the delight of robed nuns on the seashore, and others.

The courthouse is part of the Park Service's Jefferson National Expansion Memorial.

Trojans work overtime to win at Mater Dei

Trojans 'Hearded' to title, 76-73

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor

BREESE, Dec. 30-It came right down to the game that had been expected. The "game of the year" so early in the season. The matchup of the defending state champions and the team that many observers felt might be the next in line for the title.

THE DEFENDERS were the Madison Trojans, last year's state Class AA champs... the pretenders were the Nashville Hornets, a young, upstart group of players 6-7, 6-6 and 6-2 across the front lines. At stake this time around was the championship of the Breese Mater Dei Holiday Tournament.

The result was a game that was filled with more excitement, skill, breaks and pure luck than a Notre Dame football game.

Coming from behind, the Trojans gained their second straight Mater Dei title, 76-73 in overtime Friday night.

In the third-place game, O'Fallon knocked off Breese Mater Dei, 71-63.

The consolation champ was St. Paul of Highland, 83-76 winner over Chatham-Glenwood. Springfield Griffin beat Okawville 59-58 for fifth place.

THE "MAIN MAN" in the overtime for the Trojans was James Heard, "Mr. Free Throw." He hit a one-and-one situation with only three seconds remaining to assure the Trojans of the win.

But the game almost didn't make it that far. With 13 seconds left in regulation and the score tied, 69-69, Nashville's John Jankowski missed (which was rare Friday night) a shot. Eric Stanley cleared off the rebound to Tim Colston, who blew a shot from directly underneath the basket.

Keth Maschoff of Nashville missed a layup with three seconds left and Jankowski's rebound attempt sat on the rim and then rolled off as the buzzer sounded.

"I had a feeling that something crazy was going to happen tonight," said triumphant Madison coach Larry Graham. "But I'll tell you, when all the chips are on the line, it's Heard that I want out there at the free throw line."

Heard made five straight charity tosses down the stretch drive against Okawville in a quarterfinal win, Tuesday.

Heard showed equal confidence in his free throw shooting ability. "I knew when I went up to the line with three seconds left that we had it won," he said.

After trailing at the end of the first quarter 16-14, Madison reeled off six unanswered points at the beginning of the second period to take a 20-16 lead.

A jumper by Roger Steig brought the Hornets within two, 20-18 with 6:15 left in the first half.

But another spurt by the Trojans resulted in a 28-20 lead with 3:38 remaining in the period.

A THREE-POINT PLAY by Kenny Stanley with nine seconds remaining in the period gave the Trojans their biggest lead of the game, 36-28 at halftime.

In the third period, the Hornets managed to trim two points off the Madison lead, but could get no closer. That set the stage for the exciting fourth quarter.

Madison gained its eight-point bulge on a basket by Tim Colston off the tip. But Nashville scored 10 of the next 12 points to tie the game at 56-56 on a three-point play by 5-10 guard Barry Morris with 5:55 remaining in regulation.

The teams played on a ping pong table the rest of the way, with one team getting the lead, and then giving it up to the other.

That set up the final exciting seconds of regulation time and the heroics by Heard in the overtime.

"I KNEW we had it all wrapped up when there wasn't any time left," said Trojan Ronald Morris afterward. "I knew then that they couldn't catch us."

"In a game like this," said Graham, "the ball has to bounce your way a few times to win. It did that."

JUST BEFORE boarding the team bus for the trip back home to Madison, Graham may have summed up the whole tournament for Madison in one statement.

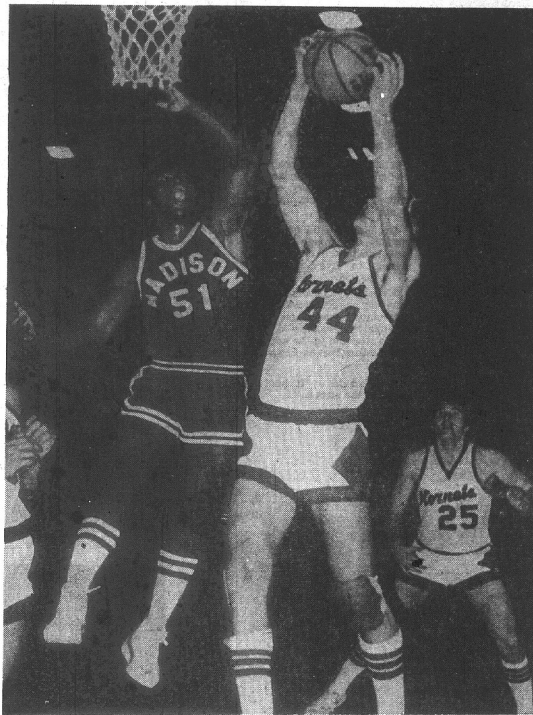

"It must be living right."

Madison nips hosts

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor

BREESE, Dec. 29—From now on, anyone with a heart condition should stay clear of a Madison basketball game.

Thursday, for the second night in a row, the Trojans came from behind late in the game and took a 45-overtime thriller from underdog Breese Mater Dei squad.

The Trojans trailed at all three quarter stops... 19-13 after the first quarter, 31-27 at halftime and 49-44 after three quarters. But it didn't take them long to get closer, once the fourth quarter started.

A JUMPER from the top of the key by Kenny Stanley after the tipoff made it 49-46. Jeff Haselhorst of Mater Dei was called for charging on Breese's next possession, giving Trojan Tim Colston a chance to shake free of the Knight's defense and go in the back door for a layup to bring Madison within one, 49-48.

The Trojans took their first lead of the night with 6:24 remaining in regulation time on a five-footer by Stanley, making the score 52-51.

That lead later grew to four points when Eric Stanley grabbed his own rebound after a missed five-footer and put it in. Then came a play that possibly could have ended the game in regulation... but back-door play seconds from front of Mater Dei's Tom Dettmer and stole a Knight rebound pass.

RACING down the floor, with Dettmer about six feet behind him, Heard attempted to slam dunk ball. But he lost his grip on the ball and blew the easy shot. Dettmer took the rebound.

With 57 seconds remaining in regulation time, Anthony King made the first end of a one-and-one situation but missed the second. But things looked relatively safe, the Trojans had a four-point lead.

Haselhorst tied it up with two minutes left on a part of free throws... but that was all Mater Dei was to get in the overtime. With 35 seconds remaining, Stanley drove in from the right side for a basket and gave the Trojans the lead for good, 67-65.

"WE'VE GOT a lot of guts," Graham said afterwards. "That's what it takes to win a game like this... a lot of guts."

But he was less pleased with

On the next trip down the floor, Mater Dei's Mark Arensten missed a 10-foot jumper from the left side. Heard grabbed the rebound for Madison, but was fouled by Arensten.

Heard, who had lit the Trojans' to their quarterfinal win over Okawville, Wednesday with clutch free throw shooting down the stretch, missed his first attempt at the one-and-one.

MATER DEI'S Dan Klostermann, a 6-5 center, ripped down the rebound and shot the outlet pass off to Kevin Cavaleto, who banged one home from 15, bringing the Knights within two with 35 seconds remaining.

With 14 seconds left, the shoe was on the other foot. This time it was the opposition that needed some clutch free throw shooting to stay in the game.

Kenny Stanley fouled Cavaleto and go in the back door for a layup to bring Madison within one, 49-48.

Then came a play that possibly could have ended the game in regulation... but back-door play seconds from front of Mater Dei's Tom Dettmer and stole a Knight rebound pass.

Warriors repeat as tourney champs; Steelers fifth

Things returned to normal Thursday night. Most of this young season, Granite City South Coach Bill Schmitt and his Warrior wrestlers have had to listen to claims by many that Roxana was the team to beat on the prep wrestling scene.

If Roxana was the team to beat, the Warriors did it. They scored 190 overall points to the Shells' 179.5 to repeat as the champions of their own holiday wrestling tournament.

Pekin finished third with 140.5. The big surprise to many was Belleville East's 136-132.5 edging of Granite City North for fourth place.

There were four first-place finishers for the Warrior grapplers, and one for the Steelers. Wally DeShon, Barry Forsee, Sam Perkins and Darrell Hasty all were winners in their weight classes for South.

North's Khris Whelan continued his dominance of the 112-pound weight class in walking to the championship.

Dean Perkins of South finished third in the 132-pound weight class and Steve Hartline placed second in the 125-pound class.

In the 98-pound class, Greg Garland and Gerald Miller finished fourth and fifth respectively. Bob Kirgan of North and Rocky Lupardus of South did the same thing in the 105-pound class.

In the 145-pound class, Ray Stuart of North placed third. Don King of South placed fourth in the 185-pound class.

GC hockey tournament a success

Granite City amateur ice hockey teams made it to five of the six championship games played Friday and Saturday after a long week in the Granite City Invitational Hockey Tournament... but they won only one.

The winner of Granite City's only first-place trophy was the Bantam White Squad. The young skaters beat Webster Groves, Mo., 3-2 in the championship game.

In the Squirt White Division, Valley, Mo., came away with the top prize, 3-1 over Granite City.

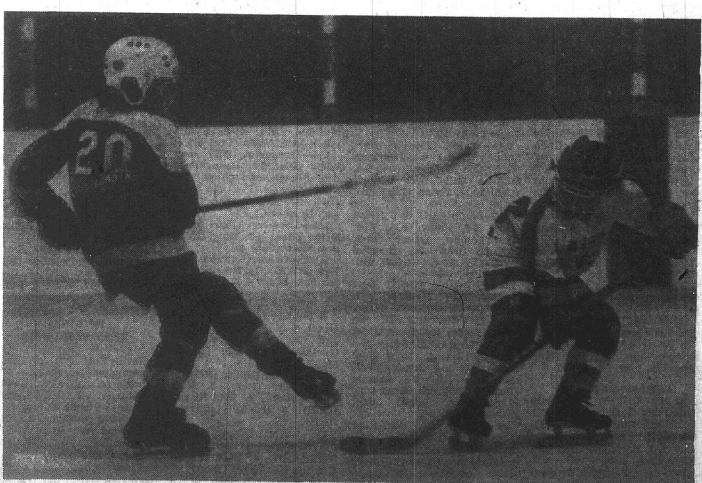

Clayton, Mo., won the championship game of the Squirt's Red Division with a 2-1 win over Granite City.

Kirkwood, Mo., took the championship game from Granite City in the Bantams Gold Division.

In the only championship game not involving a Granite City team, St. Charles, Mo. defeated Kirkwood 2-0 for the Junior Red title.

In the Pee Wees White Division, Florissant, Mo., beat Granite City's entry 5-2 for the championship.

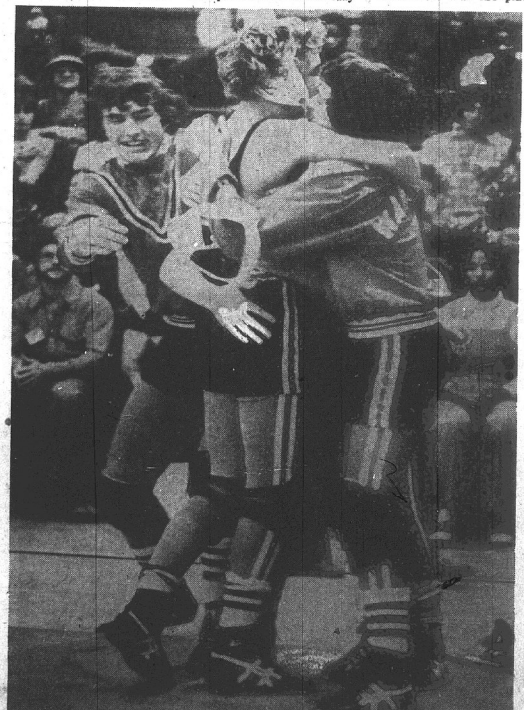

The tournament, which was co-sponsored by the Granite City Park District, the Granite City Amateur Hockey Association and the Press-Record, saw 42 games played over a period of six days, with games starting as early as 7 a.m. and ending late into the evening hours.

ONE, TWO, KICK—This Granite City Bantam White player (20) seems to be demonstrating the newest dance step in the championship game of the Granite City Invitational Hockey Tournament Saturday in Wilson Park.

Hockey . . . the Granite City way

It was a good week for ice hockey in Granite City. The Granite City Invitational Hockey Tournament (the first) took up most of the time of many of Granite City's most avid hockey boosters.

A total of 42 games took place, beginning Monday morning at 7 and ending Saturday evening with the last championship game.

Granite City did quite well, making it through the hard schedule to the championship games in five of the six divisions.

Even though Granite Cityans won only one championship, the tournament was regarded as definitely a success—drawing more attention to the area and emphasizing that hockey is here to stay.

And besides... "It kept the kids off the streets."

his team's overall performance as compared to its intestinal fortitude. "We've got to make those free throws," he said. "It was our game to win in regulation, but we just couldn't get it done."

"We had several chances to put it away late in regulation form but couldn't convert."

"We've just got to stop taking chances on defense. They were getting away from us for easy layups after we had gone for the ball and missed."

BUT THE REAL TEST was yet to come. Next up (Friday) was the number one seed in the tournament; the game that had been expected by both teams from the beginning of the tourney... Madison... against Nashville for the championship.

She's better at tennis

By KATHY SMALL
Granite City Joy Pierson, captain of the women's tennis team at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, plays tennis because she has had "more success with tennis than basketball."

She played basketball for three years at Granite City High School North and tennis for two years, serving as captain those two years. She was chosen most valuable player in her senior year.

Miss Pierson, who was the third-ranked player this season, was 1-3 in singles competition and 4-2 in doubles during the fall season. "I like doubles better because it's more fun," she smiled.

"In doubles, it's better to stick with one partner to get to know her game better."

She was teamed up with Jeannie Depper of Belleville most of the season.

In district competition of her junior year in high school, she and her doubles partner were defeated by Miss Depper and her partner. "I remember they beat us, but Jeannie doesn't remember," she reminisced.

"My performance this year was better than last. I'm a little more used to playing big colleges," said Miss Pierson, who admitted she is intimidated easily.

Her main problem in tennis is that she has little or no confidence in herself, which is hard to understand because she is a good player.

"I need to work on strategy, so other players won't intimidate me. My backhand needs help, too."

"If I played eight hours a day and had a really good teacher that I could afford, I'd be as good as I wanted to be."

"In high school, I was lucky to have a coach to work with, because we were beginners. She helped me because I never had lessons."

"A tennis player needs endurance, strong discipline and strong legs."

Her assets include quickness and physical ability. She is a definite plus for the young Cougar net squad.

"I think Bob Gamble did well for his first season coaching. He had a lot of obstacles this past fall season, but he'll do a lot better next spring."

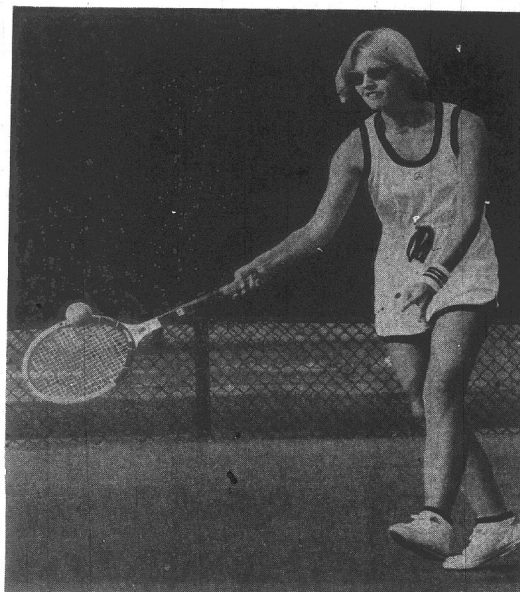

"The future of SIUE's tennis program looks good," she predicted.

This fall, the tennis Cougars captured fifth in state.

"Last year, we did really well against bigger and better teams. I think we only got shut out once," Miss Pierson said.

She looks forward to playing tennis for SIUE the next three years. "I'll improve as the team improves, I hope," she concluded.

She is a physical education major at SIUE, and hopes to coach basketball in the future.

Steelers host Shells tonight

The Granite City North basketball Steelers, fresh from taking third place over the holidays in the Wood River Christmas Classic, will get back into regular season action tonight with a home game.

It will be a rematch of the third-place game at Wood River between the Steelers and Roxana.

North defeated the Shells 55-52 in that one, and a good game tonight wouldn't surprise anyone, especially North Coach Bill Ohlendorf.

"We'll definitely have to be at our best to beat them again," said the Steeler coach. "I know they'll be out for revenge."

The Steelers, now with a 3-5 record, will play a junior varsity game beginning at 8:30 p.m., with the varsity contest to follow afterward, about 8 p.m.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY of the Breese Mater Dei Tournament is held by Kenny Stanley after the Trojans had edged first-seeded Nashville in overtime for the title.

1977—a year of changes in the Quad-Cities

CITY AMBULANCES — Granite City purchased four new ambulances in March to begin the first city-operated ambulance service in the Quad-City area.

HOLY TRINITY DEDICATION — In July, Grace Bishop Simeon, head of the American Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Diocese of the U.S.A., Canada and Australia, presided at 70th anniversary services of Holy Trinity Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church in Madison.

DROWNING SCENE — Mississippi River and other bodies of water took their toll among Quad-City fishermen and swimmers during 1977. Shown are rescue workers at the Low Water Dam after a drowning in November.

INVITATIONAL HOLIDAY ICE HOCKEY tournament sponsored by the Press-Record, Park District and Granite City Hockey Association attracted 24 teams for competition Dec. 26-31. Lee Schreiber (No. 5) is shown scoring a goal for the Granite City Squirts against a Valley, Mo., ice team.

REPEAT CHAMPIONS — Granite City remained the state's soccer capital in 1977 as the South High School Warriors won their second consecutive state soccer title. The team is shown at Huskie Stadium in DeKalb as it received the championship trophy.

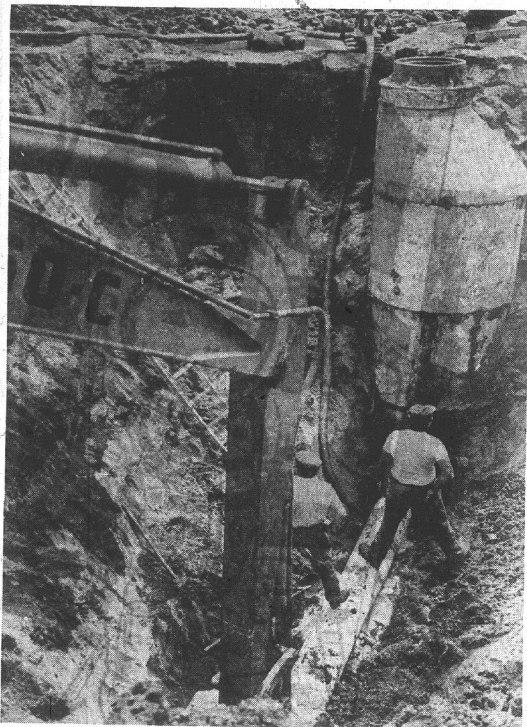

SWEEPING ARRESTS — A 10-month undercover operation by agents of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the Venice police resulted in a dozen arrests in January. Agents set up a swap-shop where dealers in stolen merchandise and guns unsuspectingly sold the merchandise to federal agents.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Tues., Jan. 3, 1978 Page 11

A YEAR OF CHANGES in the Quad-City area, as recorded by the Press-Record's cameras. Clockwise from upper left:

SEWER REPLACEMENT — The Granite City Street Department undertook several major sanitary sewer replacement projects in 1977, including a replacement project 17 feet underground along Fehling Road in April.

MADISON CHAMPIONS — The Madison High School basketball team won the Class A statewide title during the tournament at Champaign in March.

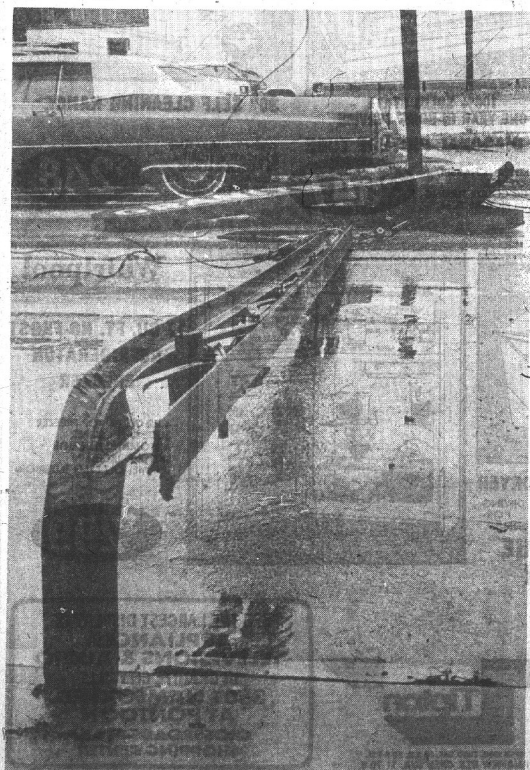

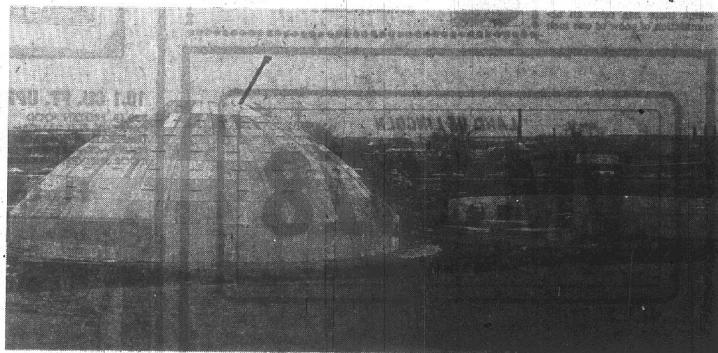

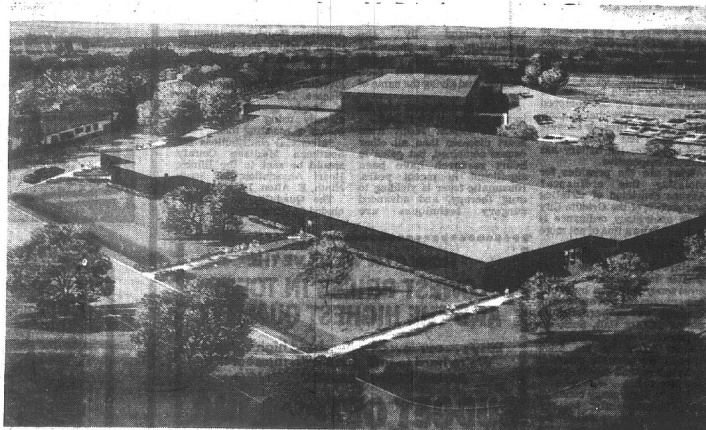

A NEW SCHOOL — Ground was broken Nov. 28 for construction of a $3 million Madison public school to serve the sixth through eighth grades.

PORT AREA EXPANSION — 1977 was a banner year for the Tri-City Regional Port, as it was designated a foreign trade zone and several industries announced plans to locate in the port area. Under construction during the year were offices, storage tanks (shown in photo), conveyor systems, an industrial park and other improvements.

AN ELECTION YEAR — Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, right, participated in the campaign along with a rival, Daniel Partney, center. They are shown during a neighborhood gathering at which they discussed city government issues.

SEVERE WEATHER — The weather made the news frequently during 1977. In March, winds of up to 52 miles per hour tore a large sign from the Granite City Steel building, and the falling sign bent a utility pole onto State Street.

GC snow emergency plan is outlined

An explanation of Granite City's plans to expedite traffic in heavy snow or ice storms by adoption of a snow emergency ordinance early last month was outlined by city officials today.

The ordinance, enacted Dec. 6, establishes snow routes in various parts of the city and provides for procedures and maintenance operations to keep these routes open to travel in severe winter weather.

An information release, prepared by the city, said: On December 6, a snow emergency ordinance became law in the city of Granite City. The ordinance was enacted to facilitate the movement of traffic on main thoroughfares by prohibiting parking and stalled vehicles during snow emergencies, and also to permit snow removal equipment to operate without being impeded by parked or stalled vehicles on main arteries.

What is a snow emergency? A snow emergency exists whenever the City Snow Coordinator finds, on the basis of actual weather conditions or on the basis of a weather forecast, that weather conditions will make it necessary that motor vehicle traffic be expedited and that parking be prohibited or restricted for snow plowing and other purposes. Also, a snow emergency automatically exists on any Snow Emergency route in which there has been an accumulation of snow and ice of one inch or more in one hour.

How are motorists affected by a snow emergency? During a snow emergency it is illegal to park motor vehicles on Snow Emergency routes. It is also illegal for motor vehicles to become stalled on a Snow Emergency route because the drive wheels are not equipped with effective tire chains, snow tires, or radial tires, or because the vehicle has exhausted its fuel supply or the battery has become inoperative.

What are the penalties for violating this ordinance? Anyone convicted of violating any portion of the Granite City snow emergency ordinance is punishable by a fine of not more than $25 or less than $10.

How is a snow emergency declared? The Snow Coordinator may declare a snow emergency condition by public announcement over radio, through newspapers, or as posted at City Hall. Such an announcement will describe the actions taken by the Snow Coordinator when the condition is effective and which routes are affected.

A Snow Emergency condition can, subsequently, be terminated via public announcement by the coordinator. Remember, a snow emergency is also automatically in effect on a snow emergency route on which there has been an accumulation of snow of one inch or more in one hour and ice of any thickness.

Who is the Snow Coordinator and what are his duties? The Granite City Snow Coordinator is the city's superintendent of streets. The ordinance empowers him to declare and to terminate snow emergency conditions.

What is to do when stalled on a snow emergency route? If a vehicle becomes stalled on a snow emergency route during a snow emergency, the motorist must have the vehicle towed or pushed immediately from that route onto the first cross street that is not a snow emergency route.

What is a snow emergency route? A snow emergency route is a pre-designated city of Granite City thoroughfare generally regarded to be a "main artery" for vehicle traffic. The ordinance specifies that such routes be designated by special "distinctive and uniform" signs posted at regular intervals along such routes.

Which are Granite City snow emergency routes? Granite City snow emergency routes are designated as posted on the map kept in the office of the city clerk of the city of Granite City and are as follows:

Madison Avenue from 15th Street to Nameoki Road; Niedringhaus Avenue, Washington Avenue to Rt. 3 and 151 Depot Gale; 20th Street, Route 162 to West 25th Street; Pontoon Road, Maryville Road to Rode Avenue; Johnson Road, Pontoon Road to Pehling Road to 27th Street to Adams Street; Niedringhaus; State Street, 18th Street to 18th Street and 18th Street to Niedringhaus; St. Clair, Nameoki Road to Maryville Road.

Victory Drive, Nameoki Road to Maryville Road; Maryville Road, Pontoon Road to Terminal Avenue; 23rd Street, Nameoki Road to Adams Street; 25th Street, Madison Avenue to Route 3, North Granite; 27th Street, Madison Avenue to Nameoki Road; Clark, Johnson Road to Maryville Road.

Memorials to heart victims

In response to numerous requests from families and individuals, the American Heart Association of Southern Madison County has begun a memorial fund to which families and friends of victims of cardiovascular diseases may contribute, according to Richard Swift, field director.

"Contributions made in memory of a friend or a member of the family are acknowledged by the association, and a memorial card is sent to the family stating that a memorial has been received and giving the name of the donor.

"These contributions may be in any amount," Swift said.

"More deaths result from heart diseases than all other causes combined, but gains in heart research have been significant in recent years. Rheumatic fever is yielding to drug therapy, and advanced surgery techniques are enabling patients to live normal, healthy lives. Some of the most dramatic developments have been made in heart research centers in Texas," Swift said.

"Memorial funds are received throughout the year and added to the association's annual Heart Fund receipts," Swift pointed out. "Memorial funds are becoming increasingly important to the American Heart Association as more families and individuals become aware that they can contribute in the name of a loved one to the fight against the disease. The Heart Association is deeply grateful to those already using this practical means of assisting them.

"Memorial contributions for Southern Madison County should be sent to the Illinois Heart Association, 60 South Ninth, E. Alton, Ill. 62024. The Quad-City area is included in the association.

Local phone rates to match rest of Illinois Bell's area

How does a utility prepare a request for a rate hike in Illinois?

Very carefully, because the task is complicated.

A key goal is to match this community's rate structure with the statewide pattern.

Although Illinois Bell last week said it is asking for a nine percent revenue increase, a customer's bill won't necessarily increase by the same percentage even if the plan is fully accepted by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Residence any local monthly rate changes in this area, any increases will depend on whether a customer uses a lot of telephone service or chooses optional services and equipment. Request includes:

Rate changes in the six-element service charges for installing and rearranging phone service to come closer to covering the $95 it costs Illinois Bell to process service orders.

The company proposes an optional budget plan to let customers pay these one-time charges in equal installments covering three, six, nine or 12 months, with a one percent monthly charge for unpaid balance for customers who choose the six, nine or 12-month options.

estimated directory assistance expenses for 1978 are $70 million — a cost shared by all customers.

Expense savings would be $12.3 million a year, money which would otherwise have been made up in the form of higher rates.

The phone lines of customers certified as physically disabled who can't readily use directories would be exempt from any charge — as well as coin phones, hospital and hotel room phones.

Certain business and residence optional equipment and services would be re-priced based on current costs.

Residence extension phone rates, for example, are 96 cents a month, said to be below the current cost of providing the set, wiring and maintenance.

The proposed $1.35 would bring Illinois Bell's rate from the lowest in the Bell System to about average. Business extension rates would increase to $1.85 from $1.35 monthly.

Residence premium phone increases include Princess sets (to $1 from 85 cents) and Trimline sets (to $1.15 from $1). Touch-Tone service increases business and residence, including the line and station charge, average 40 cents.

Custom Calling service, available in some areas, allows phone users to forward calls, hold conference calls, or be signaled that there's a second call on the line.

Monthly increases for businesses range from 35 cents to 60 cents per individual feature; for residence customers, the increases range from 20 cents to 30 cents for each individual feature.

Rates for operator-assisted long distance calls within Illinois would be revised. Direct-dial call rates remain the same.

Operator-assisted calls would be the dial rate plus the appropriate charges: credit card (30 cents); collect, third-number and other station calls (50 cents); or person-to-person ($1).

The initial period for operator-assisted calls is to be reduced from three minutes to two. The effect would be to reduce longer distance operator-assisted call rates and increase charges for such shorter distance toll calls.

An optional message unit calling plan would be introduced for low-user residence and business customers in outer metropolitan exchange areas and the 20 largest exchange areas elsewhere in Illinois Bell territory.

Measured zero service, available in Chicago and the inner metropolitan suburbs, provides individual line residence phone for $3.50 a month with message unit charges for each call. For business customers, the message unit plan will include 75 units for $10.25 a month.

Other statewide changes include elimination of Full Time Wide Area Telecommunications Service (WATS), to be replaced by Full Business Day service providing 175 hours a month of calling time; increases of 17 to 22 percent for multi-line business key telephone systems; increases of 50 cents monthly in private branch exchange (switchboard) stations.

Increases in present private branch exchange systems averaging about 22 percent; Centrex business service rate changes resulting in an overall average 11 percent increase. Increases of at least 15 percent on telephone answering service equipment; and one-time and monthly rate changes for mobile telephone service, increased revenues of 18 percent.

Phone listings that are non-published would go to $1 a month from 50 cents and those listed with directory assistance only would be charged 50 cents a month.

Two-line residence Family Plan rates would increase in the range of $1.80 to $2.70 a month. This plan has been limited to existing customers.

Basic monthly rates for semi-public coin phones would increase $3 (to $15 from $10 in the Chicago metropolitan area).

In the Chicago metropolitan area, changes include:

Reduction in rates to $6.10 a month for Measured-55, an optional calling plan for inner metropolitan suburban residence customers. Rates for this service now range from $6.55 to $6.90 a month.

The rate for the optional measured business calling plan, with 75 units of calling, would be standardized and reduced to $10.25 monthly from the current range of $10.30 to $11.

Rates for Chicago and suburban unlimited Call-Pak plans would increase ($6.80 a month for unlimited calling anywhere within a 20-mile radius of downtown Chicago and $15 a month for unlimited calling within a 40-mile radius).

The value of message units in the suburban Call-Pak allowances would be standardized at the Chicago level of four cents each, resulting in increases of 15 cents to 60 cents monthly for inner metropolitan suburban Call-Pak customers and 35 cents to $2.25 monthly for outer metropolitan suburban Call-Pak customers.

Additional message units above those included in a customer's calling plan would be standardized at 94 cents each. The initial minutes for a non-local coin phone call would be reduced from four minutes to three.

Metroline, a business service allowing 10 hours of local calling a month in the Chicago and inner metropolitan areas, is to be replaced by $46.25 from $36.75.

Outside the Chicago metropolitan area, besides extending the optional measured service, changes include:

Increases in the basic charge for Community Service, an optional extended area local calling plan, to $2 for existing customers ($2 more for residence customers for the first two hours of calling and $3 for business).

Rate reductions and increases are proposed for customers in the Belleville-East St. Louis-Granite City area (which Illinois Bell began serving in 1975), so local rates match the rates charged in the rest of Illinois Bell territory.

The request for a nine percent revenue increase will involve monthly rate services which the customer has the option of using.

We need higher rates to catch up with the inflation that will continue to erode our earnings until the Illinois Commerce Commission acts on our application. They will more fully recover the costs of providing certain services, such as installation and rearrangement of telephone service," an Illinois Bell spokesman asserted.

"We have done everything possible to bring our earnings up to a satisfactory level through technological innovation and productivity. But this rate increase is needed to offset higher costs that could not be met by these efficiency gains."

"Basic telephone rates have not been raised since 1974. In fact, in the last 10 years, Illinois Bell's rates, on the average, are up just 28 percent while the Consumer Price Index has risen 84 percent."

Consumer tips—buying a 'condo'

By RUBY SEKTON

More than half the population of the United States will be living in some form of condominium housing within 20 years, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development says in a booklet designed to help potential buyers understand the concept of condominium ownership.

Consumers are finding that condominium living offers a new and rewarding way of life, HUD says. It allows individuals to control their own dwelling unit as well as share in recreational and other common facilities.

However, there are a number of pitfalls that purchasers should avoid, and the buyer should thoroughly understand the terms and conditions of this relatively new form of home ownership, the booklet points out.

One warning is that no one should sign a subscription and purchase agreement or any other form of sales contract without first receiving and reading these documents.

The declaration or master deed permitting the condominium to come into existence, the bylaws, operating budget, management agreement and, for those involving federal funds or mortgage insurance, the regulatory agreement.

Condominium ownership differs from traditional home ownership in that a special real estate law permits individual dwelling unit estates to be established within a total and larger property estate, the booklet explains. The free, 48-page booklet, "Questions About Condominiums: What to Ask Before You Buy," can be obtained by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Department 5682, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

You can get better gasoline mileage from your automobile if you avoid high speeds and fast getaways and learn to drive as smoothly and steadily as traffic and road conditions allow, the U.S. Department of Transportation says.

Another suggestion is to check your tire pressure monthly, since under-inflated tires are too low increase the rolling resistance and reduce gasoline mileage. When climbing hills or long grades, try to avoid pressing the accelerator all the way down, which wastes gasoline.

The booklet, "Gasoline: More Miles Per Gallon," explains how gasoline produces power and gives other tips for getting better mileage. For a copy, send 35 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Department 003E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

No food shortage ahead—Ill. Farm Bureau head

Consumers do not have to fear that a farmers' strike will create food shortages, Harold B. Steele, Illinois Farm Bureau president, said in a weekend news conference.

Acknowledging that strike efforts of the group called American Agriculture have helped call attention to farm income problems, Steele said he feels there are more effective ways to deal with such problems than for farmers to refuse to produce, sell their products and buy farm supplies.

The Carter Administration can aid farm income by helping to expand farm markets, especially in foreign countries, he asserted.

Steele said some sort of energy farm credit assistance could be helpful "to those deserving farmers who face severe financial problems through no fault of their own." He said he will urge the American Farm Bureau Federation to work toward that goal.

He commented, "I didn't drive here on a tractor today. The tractor driving has achieved its purpose in attracting attention to farmers' problems, so from here on tractor driving ought to be reserved for use down on the farm where we produce food."

"The strike has attracted a great deal of attention, and that's good. Reporting has been factual for the most part, but consumers could read and listen and watch and get the idea that the great majority of America's farmers are on strike. That's just not true.

"The majority of America's farmers are deeply concerned about low prices and falling farm income, but they don't see that a strike provides any solutions. It just increases the problem."

"It's impossible to tell how many farmers have taken part in Illinois, but I would estimate that some two percent of the state's farmers have been involved in the tractorades and demonstrations. Those demonstrators will produce a crop next year with very few exceptions."

"America's farmers will not strike in sufficient numbers to cause any major effect on food production. But the strike has done some good."

GC steel meets high quality needed for 'oil country' pipe

One of Granite City Steel's top customers is also a member of the family.

That customer is National Pipe & Tube Company, a National Steel Corporation subsidiary, which was built brand new and started operations in the spring of 1976.

It's located at Liberty, Texas, in "oil country," about midway between Houston and Beaumont on the Gulf Coast.

The half-mile long, 400,000 square-foot pipe mill that was built in Liberty is the newest and most advanced in the nation—producing casing, tubing and line pipe.

The new plant was fully certified as an oil country tubular products and line pipe producer by the American Petroleum Institute.

In addition, National Pipe & Tube was approved as a quality mill source for many of the oil and independent oil companies. This approval is required prior to placement of orders by the companies.

Currently, National Pipe & Tube employs about 450 people. GC Steel furnishes hot rolled coils to NPT, as this customer is generally referred to at GCS. And if you think the customer is given short shrift because of the family association, you're badly mistaken.

Oil country goods have such high quality demands that GCS has built a special "deep etch" laboratory near the Blooming Mill slab yard for extra testing of steel to make sure it meets stringent requirements of oil country goods.

The lab is under the direction of the Department of Metallurgy and Quality Control. Pieces of steel, which have been cut from slabs, are checked for selected properties, particularly as they relate to minimizing of welding problems and hydrostatic failures which could cause the pipe or tube to burst.

GC Steel has also constructed a special pouring platform and ladle turn-around table where such steel is handled in the basic oxygen furnace. Purpose of the platform is to enable the BOF to hold the molds of molten steel inactive—not moving them—for longer than the normal period of time, assuring a favorable segregation of the important chemical elements resistance welding, stretch reduction, normalizing and non-destructive testing machines and equipment assure buyers of greater quality and consistency than has previously been available.

NPT people point out that "the saying quality can't be inspected into products is as true today as it ever has been. Inspections can only remove inferior products. Good products, good products result from good materials, good manufacturing practices and a dedication to pride of workmanship."

NPT has all three of those necessary elements.

Soil, water conservation advice given

Is your basement all wet? Do your children wade through puddles in the front yard? Need a pond for your fish? Want to give visiting wildlife food and housing? Do plants ignore certain areas of your property?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, cooperating with the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District, at P.O. Box 402, Edwardsville, offers four new information sheets.

The information topics are drainage around homes, developing excavated ponds, shrub plantings, and seeding instructions for areas where conditions make plant growth difficult.

Information Sheet No. 1, "Drainage Around Your Home," contains solutions to such drainage problems as wet basements and flooded yards. Water ponds on yards and poor growth of trees and other plants are also listed as indications of flooding.

Springs and seeps, seasonal high water tables, and slow soil permeability are additional factors causing wetness or drainage problems.

Avoidance of natural drainage ways, expected flood levels, and promotion agreement between neighbors for adequate water drainage systems can help combat serious water damage on valuable property.

Installing subsurface drainage systems and constructing diversions around homes are other preventive suggestions.

Excavated ponds are pits constructed in low areas. Ground water is the primary water source for these ponds.

Certain conditions affect pond development. The SCS Information Sheet No. 2, "How to Develop an Excavated Pond," has essential facts about the conditions of a pond's water supply, soils, pollution and sediment sources, and the use of underground drain tiles.

Also, floodplain sites, construction specifications, lifesaving equipment, and fish management are discussed. Along property lines, driveways and permanent fences, shrub plantings and living fences provide travel lanes for wildlife and homes for a variety of birds.

In order to support shrub plantings, certain steps are required. These are explained in the SCS Information Sheet No. 3, "Shrub Plantings for Home Owners."

Controlling existing and anticipated vegetation by using cultivation methods, herbicides and much are discussed along with planting techniques needed for the arrangement of shrubs and screen plantings.

Areas where conditions make growth difficult are discussed with seeding recommendations in SCS Information Sheet No. 4, "Seeding Critical Areas."

An area that does not have the desired plant growth, advises the SCS, should be prepared against erosive elements. This can be done by grading a level area with grading a level area with conventional equipment for seed bed preparation, mulching or covering undesirable subsoils.

The information sheet's seeding and mulching instructions emphasize how seed must be distributed evenly on the soil during proper seeding times.

The four illustrated information sheets are available at the district office. The guides are designed to help individuals and groups manage their land, water and plant resources.

Cahokia lodge earns fourth national award

The Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, has gained national prestige in earning the E. Urner Goodman Award for the fourth time.

The award was presented Thursday evening at the 37th annual meeting of the lodge, a dinner held at Montclair Bowl in Edwardsville.

The Order of the Arrow is a national brotherhood of honor campers within the Boy Scouts of America.

The Goodman Award is presented yearly to 12 of the 520 Order of the Arrow lodges in the United States that have shown excellence in several areas of camping.

Retirement pay descriptions are being explained

The U.S. Department of Labor has announced that videotape and slide presentations on Summary Plan Description requirements of the ERISA retirement income plan are available for viewing in area Labor Management Services Administration (LMSA) offices.

Thomas J. Sheehan, acting regional administrator for LMSA, says that the presentations are intended to help private employee benefit plan administrators and participants understand guidelines for preparation and distribution of the Summary Plan Description.

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) requires that administrators of private employee benefit plans furnish a clear language explanation of plan rules and benefits to each participant.

Sheehan said the presentations run 11 minutes and are available to organizations and institutions for copying or use in connection with ERISA information programs.

Individuals may view the presentations at the LMSA area office, Suite 1201A, 175 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

"We think the presentations are going to be extremely helpful to administrators preparing the reports," Sheehan said, "and we want to encourage as many interested people as possible to use it."

These include promotion of the year-around camping program by Boy Scout troops in the council, summer camp promotion, and having an updated "Where to go camping" booklet for use by local scoutmasters.

Keith Sanders of Madison, chief of the lodge, received the award from Area Chief Jeff Lobermeier of Belleville.

An Order of the Arrow lodge in Iowa is the only other lodge in the United States that has earned the award four times.

Arthur Brock, 22, of Belleville, was introduced to the 125 members attending as camp director for Camp Sunnen for the 1978 camping season.

Brock has worked on the Sunnen camp staff for the past three summers and, during the 1977 season, was program director.

The Uniwah (Quad-City) OA Chapter announced there will be a winter campout at Sunnen for members of the local chapter.

Those wishing more information may contact any of the chapter officers—James Down, chief, Bill Winter, vice chief, Scott Barrios, secretary, or Larry Todoroff, advisor.

Special recognition was given to the five members of the lodge who were awarded the Vigil honor, highest Arrow award, in September—Pat Potter, William E. Down, Lon Stone, Robert E. Schrader and Dave Duncan.

Members of the lodge were reminded of the annual pancake dinner will be Sunday, March 12, and that everyone will sell tickets in advance.

The lodge will use proceeds from the event to improve camping for Boy Scouts in the area.

Greg Grimaud was the dinner chairman, assisted by Brock Gore, Jeff Yates, Steve Senecyn, Dave Whittington, Brian Pond, Ben Hartman and Jack Vizer.

Anderson Hospital marks anniversary

The Oliver C. Anderson Hospital will celebrate the first anniversary of its opening with an open house and public tours on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8, from 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The hospital, located at Illinois Route 102 and Old Edwardsville Road, opened to receive patients on Jan. 5, 1977.

Members of the hospital staff and the auxiliary will host the public and families of the employees. Refreshments will be served.

E. URNER GOODMAN AWARD is presented Thursday evening to Cahokia Lodge Chief Keith Sanders (right), of Madison, by Area 3B Chief Jeff Lobermeier of Belleville. This is the fourth time the local lodge has earned the top national camping award.

More government, less savings, slower growth predicted

U.S. Chamber of Commerce — What influences are likely to shape our economy and society from five years ahead on out to the turn of the century? What are the really enduring trends, the things we can reasonably count on?

Excluding world war, collisions with heavenly bodies, or the arrival of an interplanetary trade mission, our economists foresee five significant economic trends:

(1) Slower growth. In the past, our economy has expanded at about 4.5 percent a year. We probably won't be able to keep that up much longer. Growth may drop down to a rate as low as 2.5 percent. There are three reasons for this prediction: First, "service industries" (such as government, health care, transportation, entertainment) are becoming dominant, and new technology does not provide the same dramatic increases in productivity in these industries that it has provided in the manufacturing and extractive industries.

Second, government policy increasingly encourages competition at the expense of savings, a lower level of savings results in less capital being available to invest for improved productivity. And third, the "baby bust" means a smaller workforce. Some of our past growth has come from growth in the workforce.

The implications of a slower rate of economic growth are more serious than the few percentage points difference in the figures indicate.

When the pie gets larger each year, it is possible to give a bigger slice to previously deprived groups without having to give a smaller piece to anyone else. Thus, everyone is reasonably happy.

But if the pie doesn't grow much, then giving more to group "A" means taking some from group "B." That is a formula for rising social tension and disruption.

(2) An aging population. Because of the declining birthrate, the average age of the population is increasing. Five years ago it was 27. Now it is 29. It will go up to 37 in the decade ahead. Since older populations tend to be more conservative, this trend may offset some of the disruptive pressures of a lower growth rate.

Two other probable labor force developments are worthy of note. Women will play a more important role — and a more equal — role in the future, a fact that will compensate partly for the workforce effects of a lower birthrate. And, we will probably continue to take a part of our productivity gains in leisure time rather than a higher monetary income. In other words, the length of the work week might get shorter.

(3) International trade will become more important to us. The economies of the world are growing increasingly interdependent and nothing short of a major disaster is going to change that.

While our levels of imports (and exports) will increase overall, this will not be equally true of all commodities and products. Imports of both fuel and automobiles will probably decline — in relative terms — somewhat by the turn of the century.

On the other hand, imported capital — that is, foreign investment in the U.S. — will almost certainly increase.

(4) Inflation will continue. Inflation is useful to a government. It permits the government to increase its revenues automatically. Thus, politicians have more money to hand out (for which they get a thumbs up from the voters) without the blame for raising taxes.

Thanks to the progressive nature of our income tax, an inflation rate of 6 percent a year (which is likely) increases government revenues by $10 billion a year as people are pushed into higher tax brackets. Conversely, anything less than a 10 percent tax cut every year means that the government is gaining on us.

(5) The government will grow larger and more powerful.

In 1933, the federal, state and local governments took about 13 percent of our output in taxes. By 1940, it was 17 percent. In 1950, it was 19 percent, then 21 percent in 1960, and 28 percent in 1970. Now, the figure is 35 percent.

At the present rate of increase, the tax take alone will amount to over 50 percent of our total income by 1990, or perhaps even earlier.

But that's just taxes. The growth of government regulations has been even more rapid, and regulation imposes huge hidden "taxes" on the economy. Business must pay for whatever is necessary to comply with the rules, and these costs are inevitably passed along in prices.

We don't want this last prediction to come true. But it will, unless a majority of us realize that our need for protection from the government is becoming greater than our need for protection by the government.

New way to cut government costs

By BENJAMIN SHORE

WASHINGTON — We learned recently that the Internal Revenue Service has been paying about $1 to informers for every $35 that the IRS has collected from tax cheaters.

Or to be precise, the IRS paid informers just over $1 million over the last three years for information that led to the collection of $35.3 million in taxes that otherwise would have never been noticed by the IRS.

That's not a bad investment, especially if it deters the cheaters from trying it again. And by letting the public know that it pays for such information and that the program is successful, would-be tax dodgers might think twice.

A corporate executive now might worry about a subordinate blowing the whistle on money expense accounts. Or one party in a less-than-amiable divorce might whisper to the IRS about a former spouse's secret bank account.

It occurred to us, however, that $35 million over three years really is pocket change in the national treasury where one talks in billions.

There is big money to be saved elsewhere in the government, and the IRS informer system might be the way.

The problem has been that conscientious bureaucrats who put the spotlight on wasteful government programs and policies usually end up being shifted to a dead-end job, transferred out of town, asked to take an early retirement. Punished, in other words.

These government workers have learned that it doesn't pay to blow the whistle on government waste, which also can be measured in billions of dollars.

Waste on a massive scale usually means one of two things: either the bureaucrat in charge is a poor manager or there is some bribery going on.

The first waste is the result of sloppy management, and it often matters little if a subordinate privately lets the bureaucrat in charge that taxpayers' dollars are being wasted. Even if the problem is corrected, the top bureaucrat does not feel comfortable with the sharp-eyed subordinate around.

And for a civil servant to take a bribery suspicion to the Justice Department is asking too much. It shouldn't be, but it is.

A. Ernest Fitzgerald won the gratitude of his fellow taxpayers years ago by blowing the whistle on the massive cost overruns in the manufacture of C-5A cargo aircraft, overruns which were absorbed by the Air Force. But Fitzgerald, a career civil servant in the Pentagon who had become an expert in cost accounting, paid a heavy price for alerting Congress. He was moved to a dead-end job and ostracized by his Pentagon superiors.

Although Congress is considering legislation to protect whistle-blowers, perhaps Congress should borrow a leaf from its IRS informer program.

An independent office, similar to the Watergate special prosecutor, could be created to receive tips on government waste. Informers could be granted anonymity by being given an identifying number.

If the tip is confirmed by an independent auditor's investigation and the waste is saved money could be paid to the informer. If Fitzgerald had been given just 1 percent of the overruns on the C-5A program, he would be a wealthy man today.

There are, to be sure, conscientious bureaucrats who act immediately to end waste regardless of who spots it. Some require a little prodding by members of Congress or the press, but eventually do the right thing.

In this huge government, however, not all top-ranking civil servants and political appointees are as concerned about the public's money as they should be, and they are the kind who make life miserable for the subordinate first speaker up, publicly or privately, about waste.

It is in these situations that an informer reward system could be effective. Especially if some of the reward were to be given to the responsible bureaucrats' pay.

Rock next? Senate president?

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — The candidacies of Sen. Thomas Hynes and Sen. Terry Bruce leave Sen. Phil Rock the inside track for the Senate presidency after next year's election.

The Senate decided in a historic struggle before finally electing Hynes as the Senate president on the 18th ballot in February.

Bruce led a dissident group, known as the Crazy Eight, before caving in after six weeks.

Now, nine months after that legendary struggle, both Hynes and Bruce are campaigning for other offices.

Hynes was endorsed for the Democratic nomination for Cook County assessor, a powerful post which also will permit him to spend more time with his family in Chicago.

Several political observers had figured Hynes' ambition was for a county office. But they didn't think he would be leaving the Senate so soon.

Of course, few persons fault him for taking advantage of the Senate so soon. Senator Tom Tuohy caught everyone by surprise when he announced he would not seek re-election.

The same holds true for Bruce.

A number of persons assumed Bruce would become a candidate for Congress when Rep. George Shipley of Olney retired. But they hadn't figured Shipley was going to retire this time.

Bruce, who also lives in Olney, immediately announced his candidacy for Congress. Unlike Hynes, however, Bruce still faces competition in the Democratic primary and will have formidable opposition should he be the candidate in November.

If Bruce would lose in his bid for Congress, he would still remain in the state Senate, because his term doesn't expire until 1980.

Should he lose in that campaign, however, it would be more unlikely that his colleagues would elevate him to presiding officer.

Hynes will leave the Senate regardless of the outcome of his election, because his term expires next year.

Speculation centers on Rock because he had been the early favorite for Senate president last time.

He is an assistant leader, a lawyer and politically he could be a downstate asset as well as Chicago.

He has been at odds with Sen. Richard Daley in the past, and when Daley passed over Rock for the top post in favor of Hynes, Rock went along with his decision without causing further dissension.

He also was expected to campaign for state office next year, but decided against it prior to the state-making debacle.

Despite his leadership role in the Senate, Rock is by no means guaranteed of being chosen as the top Democrat.

Many number of situations could develop which would block him. If someone else does emerge as a favorite of the Chicago forces, it could be Sen. Edward Gierulski, a lawyer serving his third term.

Of course, Democrats aren't assured they will be in the majority after the next election. Although they currently have a 34-25 majority, Republicans are confident they can capture enough seats to win control in that case. Senate Republican Leader David Shapiro undoubtedly would be chosen as the Senate President.

Debate on state even problems

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — The late Paul Powell used to say that the "Republicans wish they were Democrats."

Now the Democrats do, too. For in their first effort to wage a political campaign since Richard J. Daley's death, Illinois Democrats have established a new high in political ineptitude in this state.

Intrigue within the two major parties has resulted in some monumental political messes in Illinois over the years. Nevertheless, the present situation in which the Democrats find themselves is unprecedented.

It takes some doing these days to get a Republican of prominence who will say anything nice about another Democrat of comparable status. Everybody in the state on somebody else.

About all the so-called party leaders do agree on is that they are presently saddled with a 1978 slate as weak as the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

As a former campaign aide to Michael J. Howlett — obviously a Republican — experience — comments: "All they need now is for Jimmy Carter to come and campaign for us."

Illinois Republicans haven't been so happy since Eisenhower decided to run for a second term. Reports filtering into the Statehouse indicate a record number of GOP slings for House and Senate seats.

For as Paul Powell also used to say: the Republicans "smell the meat" a cooking."

State County Chairman George Dunne is next in line for abuse. He is blamed principally for overloading the ticket with Chicagoans.

New Chicago Mayor Michael A. Bilandic is ridiculed by downstate Democrats as being worthless to the party politically. Even worse, he is widely suspected of having a deal with Republican Gov. James R. Thompson to assure each of election day. Can the Democrats somehow straighten out the mess and mount a respectable campaign?

The odds are against it, for the party's leadership is about as divided as the Mid-East. The prospect of anyone pulling the dissident factions together is about nil.

Chairman John Tuohy, who had an easy time in the job when Daley was alive and actually running things, is being denounced by just about everyone for his sorry efforts at heading the state campaign.

State County Chairman George Dunne is next in line for abuse. He is blamed principally for overloading the ticket with Chicagoans.

New Chicago Mayor Michael A. Bilandic is ridiculed by downstate Democrats as being worthless to the party politically. Even worse, he is widely suspected of having a deal with Republican Gov. James R. Thompson to assure each of re-election.

Nor are the prize party runners of past campaigns free of criticism.

U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson backed into the controversy by hinting that a former candidate, Jerome S. Wadsworth, was the general candidate Richard Troy, both members of the scandal-ridden Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District Board, ought to drop off the ticket.

But some Democrats, including Sen. Dan Rostenkowski, are denouncing Stevenson for not speaking up earlier. They accuse him of resorting to his old wily-shady ways and contend that if he wants Congress and Troy off the ticket he ought to come out and say so.

Nor has Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon, who has until recently enjoyed a popularity among rank and file Democrats unmatched since Howlett before the fall, escaped unscathed.

Dixon belatedly has been the recent ill-fated slatemaking and has vowed never to participate in it again. But, like Stevenson, Dixon is criticized for not speaking out earlier and more forcefully.

Some Democrats are beginning to say openly what many have been saying privately: that Dixon has no interest in the rest of the ticket anyway and is only concerned about winning big himself.

No one can find any Democrats who think the fallen mantle of party leadership might be picked up by governor nominee, state Comptroller Michael Bakalis. Such a development would be anticipated in the normal course of politics.

But Bakalis already has more problems than a Republican in Georgia. He should get squeezed in the middle of intra-party feuding might as well stay home during the 1978 campaign and save his time and money.

No wonder Big Jim is in such good humor these days.

Safety emphasis at restaurants, boats, car crash scenes

As the new year begins, one of the new Illinois laws — restaurant signs explaining how to aid those who are choking on food — is expected to help reduce needless deaths.

Seconds and minutes are important when breathing is interrupted, and the person in the best position to be of help is one who is present — a restaurant employee or a patron — can grasp the victim from the back and provide a lifesaving "hug" that propels air upward in the throat, dislodging the food.

Along the same line, a new Illinois law provides space on driver licenses for motorists to place a sticker saying they possess an emergency medical information card. This will enable those aiding an injured driver to determine information about the individual useful in providing medical treatment.

Other laws effective in 1978 increase property tax relief to the disabled and to senior citizens from $500 to $650 a year, require that unwed women 17 and younger obtain the permission of their parents or a circuit judge to have an abortion; stipulate that property owners collecting $5,000 or more insurance on their fire-damaged homes first pay their property tax and any government demolition costs; and require that motorboat operators aged 12-17 have the supervision of a parent, guardian or an 18-year-old designated by a parent, or hold an Illinois Conservation Department boating safety certificate.

Fuller light on Illinois state legislative lobbying in 1978

An improvement in 1978 will be more complete reporting of lobbying activities to influence Illinois state legislation, thanks to a legal ruling by Attorney General William J. Scott and related action by Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon.

Stricter rules and procedures were necessary because administration of the existing law had failed to obtain reports from 305 of the 345 registered lobbyists, and had secured only partial reports from the other 40.

In 1978, with new reporting forms, companies as well as individual lobbyists will report expenditures, lobbyists will disclose spending even if it is billed directly to their clients, and reports will cover all aspects of the legislative process and not just specific measures.

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois' crime victims' compensation program is gaining momentum.

During the last fiscal year some 1,069 claims were paid out. The size of the claims range from $50 to the maximum award of $10,000.

A county-by-county breakdown is kept by Atty. Gen. William G. Scott, whose office is responsible for the program.

Each year the program has been in operation there has been a marked increase in the number of claims.

The law is designed to compensate the innocent victims of certain crimes of violence and the dependents for unreimbursable medical expenses and loss of earnings or support.

The individual is paid through the Court of Claims after an investigation has been conducted by Scott's office.

The law also allows compensation for a person or dependents when an individual is killed attempting to assist a victim of a violent crime. This also covers a person killed while trying to help a law enforcement officer.

There are various areas in which the individual may file for compensation.

These range from murder, aggravated kidnapping, rape and reckless conduct to arson.

It must be pointed out that medical expenses or loss of wages and support already covered by hospitalization insurance workers' compensation, local, state or federal government funds will be covered by the state funds. A close check is made by

Scott's office to make sure the victim and his assailant are not related or sharing the same household.

The applicant also must cooperate with law enforcement officials in the apprehension and prosecution of the assailant.

Application forms for the compensation can be obtained from Scott's offices.

Little incentive to play 'second fiddle' in this state

SPRINGFIELD — Should something be done about the lieutenant governor's office?

Some people interested in the workings of Illinois state government are beginning to think so.

In recent weeks the office has become the butt of more Statehouse jokes than any other state institution, with the possible exception of the Legislature.

The humorous disdain with which the office is increasingly regarded reached a new peak with the fumblyings of Democratic slatemakers in attempting to come up with a statewide slate.

As for the lieutenant governor, they came to the conclusion that no one of political importance wanted the nomination and departed town leaving it up to governor candidate, State Comptroller Michael J. Bakalis, to pick his own running mate.

Bakalis eventually got around to selecting Richard Durbin, a young (33) Springfield attorney, popular in local political and government circles but unknown statewide.

The formal announcement touched off the expected wise-cracks.

Current Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, who probably has been subjected to more press ridicule than anyone who ever held the office, tries to laugh it off by referring to himself, frequently as "Whizname."

This prompted one Statehouse reporter to remark: "Becoming lieutenant governor competition as one between 'whichever and whenever.'"

The current vogue in Statehouse humor is unfair to both men, and it is to be hoped that neither is taking it too seriously. For both O'Neal and Durbin are men of proven ability with records of accomplishment in public service.

Indeed, the wave of ridicule is aimed at the personalities involved but at the office itself. A growing number of students of state government have become convinced that the office is worthless and are unimpressed by the unceasing efforts to give it an importance it never can attain.

The new Illinois Constitution of 1970 killed off the office as far as any real power, prestige or influence is concerned.

The new Constitution took away the lieutenant governor's main job, which had been to preside over the Senate in the absence of the governor. This responsibility also was the authority to cast the deciding vote in case of a tie.

In a closely divided Senate a strong lieutenant governor was a man to be reckoned with. The presiding officer of the legislative body is not a person to be lightly ignored.

The old Constitution also endowed the lieutenant governor with an element of prestige which made the office more attractive than it is nowadays.

It provided that in the "absence from the state" of the governor "the powers, duties and emoluments of the office" "shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor."

Thus the lieutenant governor could not only look forward to actually being governor from time to time, but also on receiving a governor's pay for each day served in the top office.

But the new Constitution stripped the lieutenant governor of all his old power and prestige, dismissing the office in one paragraph:

"The lieutenant governor shall perform the duties and exercise the powers in the executive branch that may be delegated to him by the governor and that may be prescribed by law."

To many in politics and government this makes the lieutenant governor an errand boy of the governor and nothing more.

Card of Thanks 32

THE FAMILY OF TOM RYAN wishes to express their thanks to all their friends and neighbors for the flowers, mass card, food and all the kindnesses and considerations during Tom's illness and our loss. Special thanks to Doctor Safdar and to St. Elizabeth Hospital Staff, particularly 5th and 6th Doctors, Radiation Therapy, and many special therapists and nurses who cared for their kindnesses during Tom's lengthy hospitalizations. Thanks to Mother Mortuary, Priests of St. Joseph Church, and St. Elizabeth Hospital, pallbearers, organist and choir. Although there is nothing that can replace Tom's place in our hearts, it has made this difficult time easier to bear. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shipley Mr. and Mrs. Larry Richey and Children 32 13

Mixed reaction to grand jury study of prosecution report

Few predictions are being made regarding the outcome of a mid-winter Madison County grand jury investigation in which the topic is a study of the quality of the criminal justice system.

But many comments are being voiced, pro and con. State's Attorney Nicholas Byron says the jury is looking into a $50,000 study conducted by the Cresap, McCormick and Paget consulting firm of Washington, D. C.

He said grand jurors are being asked, "Is anything wrong with the criminal justice system in Madison County? If so, where can we improve it?"

Public discussions of the 1977 study showed a feeling that it tended to indicate government could not cope with crime in the county; this might create a bolder attitude among wrongdoers, and thus could lead to a crime upswing, Byron says.

Statements have been made in the report, and we can't let them go unnoticed," he adds.

"Someone virtually condemns the operation of my office. If there are problems, let's find out what they are," he said.

Those asked to testify are researchers from the Cresap firm and officials of the Southern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission and the statewide law enforcement commission which have been criticized for expenditure policies.

Many area police chiefs say the grand jury investigation may prove helpful, while SILEC President Edward Vonnard, a sheriff candidate, questions whether the study is the best use of grand jury time.
